The architectural site plan illustrates the layout of the 'Haus der Jugend' in Berlin. The complex consists of five main building wings, labeled BAUTEIL A through BAUTEIL E, and a separate structure labeled TURNHALLE. BAUTEIL A is a long, narrow wing on the left. BAUTEIL B is a smaller wing at the top left. BAUTEIL C is a large, central wing with a complex, irregular shape. BAUTEIL D is a rectangular wing at the top right. BAUTEIL E is a rectangular wing at the bottom right. The TURNHALLE is a large, rectangular structure located between BAUTEIL E and the bottom right corner. The plan also shows various outdoor spaces, including a large green area at the top, a smaller green area at the bottom left, and a parking area at the bottom right. The buildings are depicted with different colors and patterns to represent various materials and structures. The overall layout is designed to provide a comprehensive view of the project's spatial organization.
